

AMERICAN, BRITISH WARSHIPS HURL TONS OF SHELLS ON ENEMY PORT OF INCHON, 160 MILES BEHIND THE KOREAN BATTLEFRONT; COINCIDES WITH AIR STRIKES

Combined Shelling, Bombing Recall "Softening" in World War II

BIG NEW ATTACKS

Unleashed Along Southern Battle Sectors In Korea

By International News Service
American and British warships have hurled tons of shells on the enemy port of Inchon and its environs 160 miles behind the South Korean battlefront.

The Allied naval bombardment coincided with widespread carrier-sprung air strikes along the western seaboard between the 36th and 39th parallels.

The combined shelling and bombing blows began Wednesday and recalled the softening up bombardments that served as preludes for long-sweeping amphibious landings during World War Two.

As Inchon rocked under the assault of British and U. S. cruisers and destroyers, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker predicted that United Nations forces will "pass to the offensive in a very short time."

He made his forecast in talks to American troops along the front lines.

While surface and air units hammered the enemy far to the north behind the lines, Allied forces unleashed new attacks in the southern battle sectors.

About seven or eight miles north and northwest of Taegu—the inland anchor base of the U. N. beachhead in Korea—U. S. First Cavalry Division soldiers have recaptured some high ground lost to the invaders Wednesday.

And 28 miles below Taegu, the U. S. Second Division has jumped off in a new offensive action. Second Division troops are being supported by artillery and air barrages.

Target of that new attack is a strategic hill overlooking the road west of Yongson within the bend of the lower Nakdong river.

Along the east wing of the 125-mile rectangular front three South Korean divisions are rolling a like number of enemy divisions back northward. That move is designed to liberate the port of Pohang and

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France agreed in principle on a federal police force for Western Germany to maintain internal security but Britain and France opposed German troops as part of the North Atlantic defense. The British Commons was told that rearming was planned on the basis that war was not inevitable and that defense funds would be used mainly for armaments. Britain ordered a halt to shipment of scarce strategic supplies to nations not in the North Atlantic treaty or in the Commonwealth. Canada will limit her North Atlantic aid to arms and equipment.
High Commissioner McCloy denied in answering a letter of protest that he had ever considered "anything in the nature of a general amnesty for German war criminals."

WIFE REFUSES TO TAKE HUSBY BACK

Mrs. Joseph Smith Declines To Forgive and Forget Hair Cutting

HUSBAND BACK IN JAIL

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 14 — Mrs. Joseph Smith, Green Lane, Bristol Township, told Judge Hiram H. Keller: "No, I don't want him back." She was replying to Judge Keller, who had asked Mrs. Smith if she wanted her husband back. Smith allegedly twice cut off his wife's hair so closely that her head looked as if it had been shaved, and she wore a turban to hide the loss of her tresses.
President Judge Hiram H. Keller who sentenced Smith July 5th to serve not less than six nor more than 24 months in jail, here, asked the defendant's wife, Julia, if she wished her husband back.
"No, I don't want him back," said the small, plump mother of seven children.
"Your parole is refused," said Judge Keller, who remanded the defendant back to prison. Smith, who began his prison sentence Feb. 23, was described as a good worker by Warden Earl D. Handy. He was one of the prisoners on the walls which aided in painting the details of the interior of the Court Room.

President Judge Keller read a report from Dr. Arthur P. Noyes, Norristown State Hospital superintendent.

SCHEDULE REVIEW OF SENTENCES FOR CONVICTED TRIO

Killers To Appear Before State Pardon Board On Tuesday Next

FEASTERVILLE CASE

Murder of William Kelley Described As "Unusually Vicious"

HARRISBURG, Sept. 14 — Three convicted killers will receive a review of their death sentences next Tuesday by the state pardon board. The three Philadelphians are scheduled to die in the electric chair next month for the slaying of a man during a holdup of the Feasterville Inn, Bucks county, on Dec. 22, 1948.
Harry Zeltz, 20, David Darcy, 24, and Harold Foster, 24, were convicted of slaying William Kelley, 38, a Feasterville carpenter, who was a bystander at the inn at the time of the holdup.

The pardon board last May denied a plea to commute the death sentences to life imprisonment after Bucks County District Attorney Willard S. Curtin reported that the three had tried to break out of the county prison at Doylestown.

District Attorney Curtin called Kelley's murder "unusually vicious," and told the pardon board that another man, Allen Hellerman, of Philadelphia, had died as a result of a bullet wound received in the same holdup. Hellerman had been shot in the neck and was a helpless cripple until he died last Dec. 5.
At the hearing before the pardon board last May, Philadelphia County Commissioner Morton Watkins said that Darcy was a "sick boy," and an assistant city solicitor of Philadelphia, G. Coe Farrier, asked mercy for Zeltz because of his youth.
Gov. Duff postponed execution, which had been set for the week of June 26, to the week of Oct. 9, to permit the three men to renew their appeals.

Among other appeals which the pardon board will hear next week is the case of Maria Tilotta, of Bucks county, who is serving a life term for murder.

Investigators Turn A "Spotlight" On Bucks

The spotlight of the Department of Justice racket investigators will be on Bucks and nine other eastern Pennsylvania counties, federal agents having moved into Philadelphia yesterday.
The surprise move came in addition to the Senate crime investigating probe which is also in Philadelphia at present. Thus far 34 prospective grand jurors have been summoned to conduct the investigation under the direction of Max H. Goldschtein, one of Attorney-General Howard McGrath's top men.

The investigation agenda includes gambling, traffic in illegal drugs, white slavery, bootlegging, and other violations of the law.

"We will investigate every kind of racket in Philadelphia and the nine other surrounding counties," Goldschtein promised. A spokesman for the Department of Justice said that the probe will include the activities of various GI training school frauds.

Besides Bucks, the counties listed are Berks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery, Lehigh, Lancaster, Northampton, and Schuylkill. Goldschtein said that eight special agents have been circulating through these areas for the last two weeks.

DEFICIENCIES IN ARMS

O. H. P. King, a press correspondent in Korea, states in a thoughtful battlefront report that high ranking U. S. officers feel there is need for "radical changes" in Army organization. They also think there should be changes in recruitment and training policies, he reports.

These officers (unnamed, of course) pointed out that extreme mobility of U. S. forces was in fact resulting in unwieldiness under combat conditions in Korea. The inference was that it would be wise to junk thinking of the kind which complains: Well, it worked in Europe; why doesn't it work here? It is time to start drawing on that fabled store of adaptability with which Americans are supposed to be so well endowed.

The other point these officers make is that the composite young American soldier was lured to occupation duty in Japan by advertisements which offered him travel, a trade, and a career. When these youngsters were shipped to Korea they weren't fit for combat, physically or psychologically.

If Correspondent King were the only one to bring up the point it would be easy to pass his dispatch without second thought. But others have said practically the same thing and have gone deeper into the whys and wherefores. Another correspondent, writing from the front, condemns field commanders for their "Bradlock" complex, referring to the fatal refusal of the British general to drop European parade ground tactics and fight the American Indian in Indian style. The sharpest critic of current battle and training tactics is the respected military analyst, Hanson Baldwin.

Generally speaking, the critics fall into line. No blame is laid at the feet of the American soldier, and there is no reflection on his personal bravery. GI's have been operating in Korea under severe psychological and material handicaps, and, despite them, have done a good job against overwhelming odds. There is evidence that deficiencies in weapons and training have hit home and there seems to be recognition in Washington, finally, that the battle for Korea is not merely a battle exercise, but the real thing.

Florida sheriffs are being asked to explain how much they collected from the gamblers. This will probably result in widespread incidence of loss of memory.

NEWS OF SCHOOLS IN AREA . . .

St. Mary's Hall

BURLINGTON, N. J., Sept. 14—An event of more than unusual importance to St. Mary's Hall, will take place at that school on Sunday afternoon when a beautiful double stained glass window will be unveiled in the Chapel of the Holy Innocents at four o'clock with the Rt. Rev. Wallace J. Gardner officiating. Participating in the ceremony will be graduates, students, friends of the school and some of the clergy of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey.

The window is the gift of the Society of Graduates, in recognition of Miss Eliza Rogers Ridgway's twenty years as President of the Society and her life time of devoted effort in behalf of the Society and school. Miss Ridgway recently resigned as President and has been replaced by Mrs. Henry Galt Siegrist of Borden-town. The double window is the work of the noted stained glass artist Valentine D'Ogries of New Hope, Pa. The design of the window was chosen because of its appropriateness for a Church school for girls.

"Old at 40, 50, 60?" — Man, You're Crazy

Forget your age! Thousands are peppy at 70. Try "pepping up" with extra-vitamin tonic for weak, run-down bodies. This tonic is body's lack of iron which many men and women call "old." Try "Extra-Vitamin Tablets" for pep, younger feeling, day after day. New "get acquainted" size only 50¢. For sale at all drug stores everywhere.

(Advertisement)

There are two dominating figures. They are those of two English women saints who especially represent not only Christian education, but the great power of wise and holy women in the affairs of the Church. On one half of the window is the figure of St. Etheldreda. On the other that of St. Hilda, although they became nuns they were not destined to spend their lives in cloistered security. Instead they founded institutions of learning.

St. Etheldreda was buried at Ely and it is particularly fortunate that the English Bishop of Ely is now in this country and will participate in the unveiling ceremonies by preaching the sermon at the service following the unveiling of the window. In explaining why the window was selected to honor Miss Ridgway Mrs. Siegrist said:

"We all knew she would prefer something for the Chapel rather than a more personal gift. After many suggestions had been made and discussed the window was the unanimous choice of the Committee."

As the clergy of the Diocese are arriving on Saturday for a four day conference at the school, the Society has extended to them an invitation to attend the ceremony and to take part in the processional. As the school year has not started, the students attending will be those living in Burlington and the vicinity. The Society also extends an invitation to anyone who wishes to attend.

Plan To Start Work Soon On Pennsbury's New School

YARDLEY, Sept. 14 — Work on a new $1,250,000 high school for the Pennsbury school district is scheduled to begin next week, and the building will be ready by December of next year, according to Medill Bair, regional superintendent.

The new six-grade school became a certainty Sunday night as members of the Pennsbury Joint School Board signed the lease agreement with the State School Building Authority.

The school will be built and owned by the School Authority. The school boards of Falls township, Lower Makefield township, and Yardley borough will pay the rent for use of the building. The financial ability of the three boards to pay rent has already been established.

The new building will be located at Fallsington-Yardley and Roeloff roads. Contracts are to be let and are expected to be under way next week.

Joint school board members who signed the agreement were: James Fitzcharles, secretary, and Clayton R. Mills, vice president.

Signers from the separate school boards include: Lower Makefield, Edward Robinson, vice president, and James Fitzcharles, secretary; Yardley Borough, Victor Casey, president, and Charles F. Cook, secretary; Falls Township, Alvin Thompson, president, and Bartley Cook, secretary.

Down on the south end of the front, U. S. 25th Division troops repulsed a minor Red attack Thursday. They also continued cleaning out rear enemy pockets on the western approaches to the Allied entry port of Pusan.

Allied intelligence officers report, meanwhile, that the North Korean Communist invaders are shifting forces. The Allied officers have been unable to determine whether the enemy is carrying out general withdrawals or is transferring troops to other front-line areas.

A communique from General MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters says the enemy lost 2,082 troops in fighting Wednesday. It listed 202 North Korean soldiers as captured.

The Owls will open their season this Friday night on the Doylestown Community field at eight o'clock. The game is being sponsored by the Booster Club of the county seat. There will be the usual pre-game entertainment, including the bands of both schools, a Legion bugle corps, and a string band ensemble from Philadelphia.

Last season, the Bensalem team upset Doylestown, 12-6, when "Ed" Oliver pitched two touchdown passes.
